BetProtocol $BEPRO Review

TGH SUMMARY

BetProtocol enables entrepreneurs and developers to create gaming platforms in minutes. No coding is required and products include, CryptoCurrency Integration which allows you to accept crypto payments on your gaming platform directly to your bank account. Casino, which allow you to design your own casino application from layouts to engines, games and deposits. Esports booking, Esports and prediction markets with prediction API's for the type of market you choose.

Betprotocol already has 2 live clients, one with real fiat value and one social casino that is transitioning to real money soon. They're also hosting a third platform, hodlbet in the next month. This proves that the products have are being delivered successfully which grants $BEPRO real value and guarantees investors a safer bet (sorry for the pun). From Q3 BetProtocol clients will be able to launch Esports betting apps for the most popular games, which will bring even more value, prediction markets are also due to be launched later this year. On top of that numerous exchange listings (some major) will bring even more exposure to $BEPRO.

The BetProtocol team want to promote a healthy secondary market and felt it was too early to release the first partner and team tokens, which are now scheduled for release In 2021, their reasons are quote: "as we are all here for the long-term". In terms of effects we were expecting that it would give more security for new investors to start holding BEPRO and it's clearly working. A nice stat about this is that the number of Bepro holders on Blockfolio more than tripled in June. So this decision, paired with tech development and sales, etc, is giving really nice results. There are 1.85 billion tokens in circulating and 10 billion lock until 2021, when the batches of tokens will start to be released.
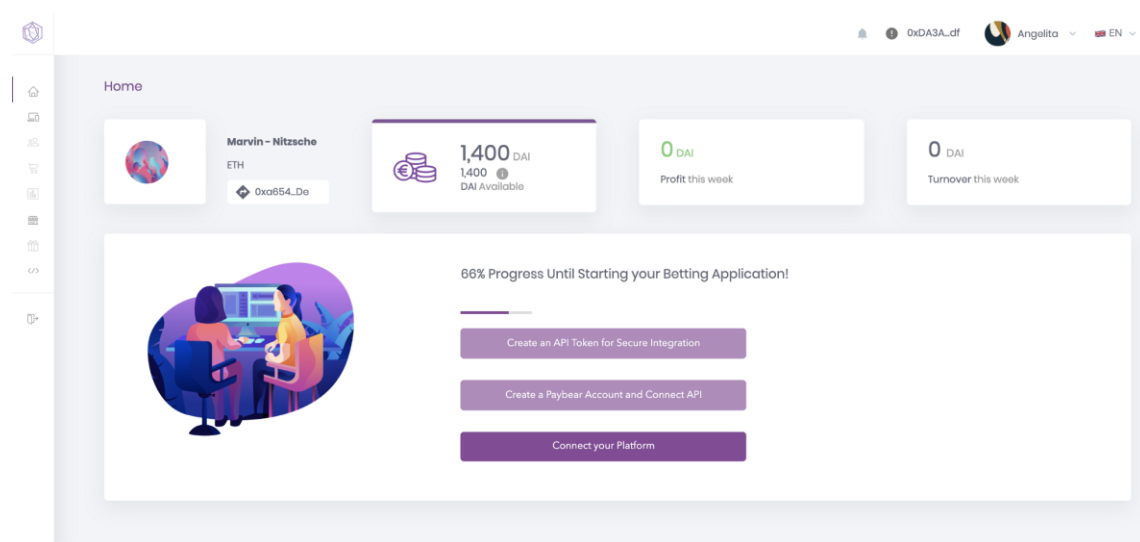

Token Utility and economy

BEPRO tokens are spent as gas for gaming volume generated by our operators. Operators must first "fill the tank" and stake BEPRO to start gaming activity. As their gaming volume increases, the BEPRO stake is spent proportionally to the value of the bets — this is our revenue. When operators' BEPRO stakes run low, they must replenish by purchasing more from the secondary markets.

BetProtocol will be making money from Day 1 of live operations and will commit a percentage of BEPRO tokens it earns through gas fees to a permanent Charity Fund and Operator Bootstrap Fund — beneficiaries voted upon by the Community. Deployment of betting dApps on BetProtocol and transaction use costs will be handled by BEPRO utility token acting as pre-paid fuel. Developers will have to fuel their dApps with BEPRO token in order to deploy on the network and transact bets on their dApps. BEPRO token is designed much like how gas functions in an automobile. Initial dApp deployment (startup) will spend BEPRO tokens, as well as continued dApp running (transacting bets) will spend BEPRO tokens.

BEPRO tokens will be deducted from dApp balances according to the amount of the bets' value executed by the dApp. As transaction betting volume and values increase in a dApp, the faster they will run out of BEPRO tokens. dApps will need to acquire more BEPRO tokens from the secondary markets to replenish their supply to stay in operation. Demand for BEPRO is therefore a function of the number of live betting operators, their aggregate betting volume and values of their bets.
